Comet's Guide: How Parents Can Shine Bright in the Digital Galaxy

In this digital age, staying connected with our kids in the online world is more important than ever. With new apps, social media platforms, and online trends emerging constantly, it can be challenging to keep up. However, it's crucial for parents to educate themselves about these digital spaces to ensure our children's safety and well-being. Keheley is committed to the digital safety of our students and aims to provide weekly tech tips to foster a collaborative effort in ensuring their online security.

Comet Galaxy weekly tech tip:

One of the first steps in becoming a tech-savvy parent is to stay informed about the latest digital developments. Engage with your children in their online activities. Play video games with them, watch their favorite YouTube channels, and explore educational apps together. This not only allows you to bond but also helps you understand their digital world. Knowing what your children are exposed to online enables you to address potential risks and provide guidance on responsible internet usage.

Science Olympiad

There is still time to sign your student up to have a wonderful time exploring many different facets of science! Use the link at the top of the newsletter to sign up and the flyer below.
